Hi Frank, I hope all is well! We're finally starting the construction process on building our home so I just wanted to reach out and thank you for your help and patience around this. My father in law (Frank Whitsell) is managing the project and he's probably been in touch with you as well.

One unrelated question about if we had people camp in tents on our land. I went through all the ordinances on camping and realized that they almost exclusively refer to RVs and campers. The only ordinance I saw regarding tent camping was that the tent must be a minimum of 25' from a property line. I know bathrooms are the biggest concern and we have portapotties. We're having an event in the spring where people will need to camp, so we're at the point where we need to decide if we're going to put them up at a nearby campground or if they can just pitch a tent here. Do you have any insight on this? Can we offer tent camping on our property throughout the summer? And if we do, we were thinking about building wood platforms for them to put tents on a level surface, in case there are any zoning concerns around that.

Thanks,

MacKenzie Whitsell
